The need for scope reduction may arise during the audits or when the client does not obey the rules during the certification process. In general, an audit is not realized for scope reduction. Scope Extension Audit Process: UDEM ADRIATIC D.O.O. clients can apply to UDEM ADRIATIC D.O.O. for scope extension in their management system by a petition which they will write on letterheads. The client writes the EA or NACE codes for which they would like to get an extension in the petition. The application sent by the client back is forwarded to the Certification Manager. The certification manager determines whether the extension will be performed or not after examining the demand. He transfers the relevant decision to the Certification Printing Unit.

- The demand is rejected if the scope to be extended is out of scopes of UDEM ADRIATIC D.O.O.
- If the scope that will be extended has the same NACE code as the client's existing scope (up to three digits), the scope is changed with the approval of the lead auditor that has performed the audit without performing a new audit. However, the new scope is checked at the following next surveillance audit.
- The scope to be extended is in different EA or even NACE code, audit is required to determine whether the client is compatible with this scope or not. To prevent the client from paying for excessive amounts, they are suggested that an audit can be made in the frame of the first following surveillance audit. If the client accepts, while the first further surveillance audit is planned, the demand/ petition is saved in the Client's folder to ensure the inclusion of scope extends to the plan. If the client requires that the extension of scope is performed immediately, they may not accept the combination of the audit with the surveillance audit. In this case, a new audit is planned by applying the surveillance audit process. The certificate is required from the client whose scope is changed by extension and a new certificate is arranged and sent to the client.

Recertification Audit Process: The re-certification audit is conducted to re-certify management systems at the request of the end-users of the 3-year certification cycle. The customer who is to be re-certified will be contacted by sending the FRM.17 Information form on the annual audit 2 months before the audit. FRM.144 Surveillance / recertification information form and FRM.144-1 ISO 13485 Surveillance / recertification information form are sent to the client, and the client is required to complete them. The re-certification decision should be made at the end of the 3-year certification process. It is possible to overcome this problem only by force majeure. Examples of attacks include fire, earthquake, flood, and the work of the customer. When a force majeure occurs, the customer is given 3 months, and the inspection is canceled if the 3-month period ends.

This audit is planned and implemented and completed as it was during the initial certification process. The purpose of the re-certification audit is, as a whole, the confirmation of the relevance and effectiveness of the management system and its relation to the scope of the certification and its continued applicability. To this aim, the re-certification audit should include a field audit to address the following:
